

PEOPLE.

The fashionable women of the country seem to have been caught on the wave of reform which has been sweeping over the country, and are displaying an unusual interest in the condition of their less fortunate brothers and sisters as well as great activity in devising means for the bettering of that condition. The poor mountaineers of Virginia have appealed so powerfully to the sympathies of Mrs. Waldorf Astor that in order to raise money to carry out her scheme of lifting them from their pitiable state she was instrumental in getting up one of the most successful and novel entertainments given in New York this winter. This was a series of tableaux, which were presented in the ball room of the Plaza Hotel, and in which the most beautiful women of New York took part. Conspicuously attractive among these was the "Salambo" of Mrs. James Eustis, who, in a wonderful gauzy gown of sapphire blue, covered with gold and silver and sparkling with gems, conveyed to the eye a perfect conception of the alluring charm of the heroine of Flaubert's masterpiece. Around her white neck was coiled a six-foot spotted python, which was at first thought to be a stuffed snake, but when the creature was seen to move gasps of horror became mingled with the bursts of admiration which the pictorial beauty of the tableaux had called forth. It was a daring piece of business, surely, and was the hit of the occasion. Mrs. Eustis was generously praised for her nerve, but she said she didn't mind the snake in the least. The audience was composed, as would naturally be supposed, of the wealthy and fashionable, and several other ladies said to have been most satisfactory to Mrs. Astor. Another question which seems to be interesting women of this class particularly at present is the condition of working men and women in the big cities. Pierpont Morgan's daughter, Miss Anne Morgan, is prominently connected with this movement, and together with several other ladies of high social position has decided to inspect the factories of New York and New Jersey. Well-known society women in Chicago, Philadelphia, New York, Cleveland and other cities are all working along these lines, and a brighter day for the laboring man and woman is confidently expected to result from their efforts. These ladies will not try to induce Legislatures to remedy existing conditions, but will endeavor to persuade the individual manufacturer in whose establishments the laboring man works that things are found to exist of the error of his ways.

A new club, called the "Interstate Club," has just been formed in this country, which in its character and purpose is entirely novel and unlike any organization in the world. It is headed by J. C. S. Blackburn is its President, and among the honorary members and Vice Presidents are such names as President Roosevelt, Senator Charles McNary, Mr. Fairbanks, Cardinal Gibbons, Archbishop Speake, Secretaries Root and Taft, Speaker Joseph B. Cannon, Hon. Leslie Shaw and a host of others equally prominent. The club now has a membership of 3,000 Americans, and it has acquired possession of 21,000 acres of land near Chattanooga, Tenn., with their fish and game preserves, Walden's Ridge, in the Tennessee Mountains. The bulk of the property is on this ridge, where the immense clubhouse will be built, containing 1,500 rooms with a roof garden on the top from which nine States can be seen. Five hundred acres have been set aside for a park, and interspersed with lawns, groves and gardens will be tennis courts, golf links, polo grounds and the stables and garage of the club. No more desirable position for such a club could possibly have been found. It is accessible, the natural beauty of the section is great, and it is sacred and intensely interesting territory to most Americans from its historic associations. Walden's Ridge! What memories does that name suggest to the veteran of the war of 1861-65? One of the attractions of the reservation will be an automobile course as well as a highway and bridge course, winding thru the forest. This highway will be 32 miles long within the clubhouse property, and will connect with the Government road from Chattanooga to the National Park, including Chickamauga battlefield. Altho it offers so many advantages and attractions as a club, it was founded with deeper significance than simply to give pleasure. Situated as it is in the Southland, it is hoped that men from that section and the South generally will become its members, and that this mingling of men from the North and South, East and West, may tend to remove any remnant of sectional feeling, if any still exists. It is intended to make it a home for the American people, where the tired politician, financier, busy city man or any other worn out with the nerve-racking strain of achievement may come for rest, and the sort of recreation which he best likes, without regard to section. It is a big, fine enterprise, and will doubtless be a tremendous success.

Wine tasting seems a queer occupation for a woman, yet one of the four famous professional wine tasters of the world is Mrs. Frona Wait, of California. Mrs. Wait was originally a newspaper woman, and slipped into the occupation of testing wine quite by accident. Being asked to write a book about wines and wine-making, she refused on account of ignorance of her subject, and was then invited to spend six months in the vineyards. At the end of that time the book was written, and she became a recognized authority on wines and their flavors. Mrs. Wait had always been a strict temperance woman up to the time of adopting her present occupation, and even now seldom swallows the wine she is testing. Her palate is in such an exquisitely sensitive condition that she can tell the difference between the wines of two vineyards which run side by side. Before tasting the wine she tests it by its "bouquet" or odor, and if she does allow the liquid to pass down her throat it is in the way of a test also, as good wine leaves the palate and throat cool and refreshed, while poor, impure wine renders these organs hot and uncomfortable. In order to keep her palate sensitive she takes the utmost care of her health, and she never tastes wine if travel weary, nervous, exhausted or in anything but a perfectly healthy, normal condition. The greatest expert wine-taster in the world was Mme. Pommery, who died about 11 years ago.

CONGRESS.

Brief Digest of Proceedings from Day to Day.

Senate.

Monday, March 2.—The Senate passed a bill appropriating $150,000 for a public park on Georgetown Heights. Senator Gallinger gave notice that the Senate District Committee would have hearings on the various bills for the District of Columbia. Senator Tillman introduced a sweeping resolution of a sensational nature, calling for a complete report on the operations of the New York banks for the six months ending Dec. 1, 1935. The biennial hearing to the woman suffragists was given by the Senate Committee on Woman's Suffrage.

House.

The House considered the Post Office appropriation bill. The Committee on Judiciary heard representatives of women's organizations in favor of suffrage. The Committee on Naval Affairs gave a hearing on the bill for the purchase by the Government of the buildings and grounds of the Jamestown Exposition.

Senate.

March 3.—Senator McCumber, of North Dakota, and Senator Newlands, of Nevada, made addresses during the consideration of the Aldrich currency bill.

Senator Tillman offered a resolution asking for the record of loans made by New York banks for stock-gambling purposes. His resolution relating to the dismissal of an Oklahoma District Attorney, who failed to quash an indictment when ordered by the Attorney-General to do so, was passed. Bills to provide a public park on Georgetown Heights, to extend 14th and 15th streets northwest, to extend Oak street northwest and to empower Commissioners to allow business houses to use portions of streets for business purposes were passed. Senator Nelson's objection deferred consideration of the Gallinger child labor bill and it was made evident that Senator Beveridge will attempt to place his general child labor bill upon it as an amendment.

Senator Aldrich deferred asking for a vote on the currency bill, giving as his reason a request from Senator La Follette that he be accorded an opportunity to speak on the bill.

After a brief executive session the Senate, at 5 p. m., adjourned. A resolution presenting to the Oklahoma Historical Society the first 46-star flag which floated over the House wing of the Capitol was passed. The House took up the consideration of the Post Office appropriation bill. At 4:50 the committee arose and the House adjourned.

March 4.—Senator Hopkins, of Illinois, addressed the Senate in support of the Aldrich currency bill. He opposed the amendments creating a guaranty fund for the reimbursement of depositors in National banks. Senator McPherson, of Idaho, opposed the bill, on account of the railroad bond feature. The Army pay bill was taken up for consideration, but before it was disposed of the Senate, at 5:19 p. m., adjourned on hearing informally of the death of Redfield Proctor, Senator from Vermont.

House.

The House passed a resolution expressing sympathy for the school disaster at Cleveland, O.

The House appointed conferees on the Indian appropriation bill, to some portions of which the Senate has objected.

A bill was passed authorizing the selection of a site for a monument to Commadore John D. Sloat, at Monterey, Cal.

The Senate bill granting an extension of time for the construction of the first 20-mile section of the California Pacific Railway and Terminal Company was passed.

A bill amending the patent laws, so that the legal representative of an applicant for a patent should be able to act for such applicant, was passed.

The House proceeded to the further consideration of the Post Office appropriation bill. The committee arose and the House adjourned.

March 5.—A few moments after the Senate convened Senator Dillingham, of Vermont, announced the death of his colleague, Senator Proctor, and, after adopting the usual resolutions and the appointment of a committee to conduct the remains of the dead Senator to his home, the Senate, at 12:08 p. m., adjourned.

A resolution was passed expressing sympathy for the death of Senator Redfield Proctor, of Vermont.

The House ordered that further general debate on the Post Office appropriation bill be postponed until Tuesday next, and that such debate conclude at 3:30 on that day.

A Senate bill was passed authorizing the change of private lands within the old Crow Indian Reservation for other land.

At 12:30 the House adjourned.

Senate.

March 6.—Senator Dewey made a speech on the currency question, favoring the Aldrich bill as a temporary measure.

The Army pay increase bill was passed, with the important amendments. Senator Teller using it as a text for a speech against Executive usurpation.

Going into executive session at 2:34 p. m., the Senate resumed consideration of the bill, with Switzerland, providing for the settlement of certain classes of disputes by arbitration, and received a favorable report from the Committee on Foreign Relations upon the convention adopted by the last Peace Conference at The Hague.

At 2:35 p. m. the Senate adjourned until noon on Monday.

House.

A resolution was passed calling upon the Speaker to name five Republicans as a special committee to investigate alleged irregularities in the conduct of the Electric Boat Company concerning legislation.

The Catholic Church claims bill, reimbursing that Church for damage done by troops in the Philippines, was passed. At 5 p. m. the House adjourned.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

J. L. Y., Junction City, O., asks: What is the rule to find the day of the week of June 4, 1859?

June 4, 1859, fell on Friday. There is no "rule" for finding the day of a date, tho it can be figured out with considerable trouble, but the so-called "perpetual calendars" are not difficult to find.

W. A. I., Somerset, Ky., asks: To what religious faith does Secretary Taft belong?

Secretary Taft was brought up in the religious denomination of his father Judge Alfonso Taft, namely, the Congregational Church, but as his wife is an Episcopalian he frequently attends that church with her.

D. T., Middle River, Iowa, writes: Please give a description of a Y bridge across a stream, as I understand there are only three in the world?

The most famous Y bridge in the United States is the one at Zaner, O., over the Muskingum and Licking Rivers at their junction. The first Y bridge there was built in 1832, and it was replaced in 1901 by the present structure. A Y bridge is one with three arms, each extending to a different bank, and usually is placed at the confluence of two streams, reaching from the right to the left bank, the stream and to the point of land between the two rivers.

G. R. S., Forest Grove, Ore., asks: 1. What is the title of the highest official of the Freemasons? 2. Who is now occupying that office for English Masons? 3. Who for Continental Masons? 4. Was this office ever held by a citizen of the United States?

1. Ordinary or Blue Lodge Masonry is made up of three degrees, the highest being that of Master Mason, and each lodge has its Worshipful Master at the head of it. These lodges are grouped into Grand Lodges, which are geographically the same as the several States, and each has its Grand Master. In Scottish Rite Masonry there are 33 degrees, and the United States is divided into two jurisdictions, the Northern with headquarters in Boston, and the Southern with headquarters in Washington, and the presiding officer of each is called the Sovereign Grand Commander. 2. Prince Arthur, Duke of Connaught and Strathearn, the brother of King Edward VII, is Grand Master of the United Grand Lodge of England. 3. There are many Grand Lodges on the continent, each of which has its own head, and there is no superlative official. 4. There is no one supreme Freemason.

P. A. C., Millersburg, Pa., asks: What kind of varnish shall I use to protect the picture of Andersonville Prison?

An excellent varnish for paintings consists of gum mastic, six ounces; pure turpentine, half an ounce; camphor, two drachms, and spirits of turpentine, 19 ounces. Add the camphor to the turpentine, making the mixture over a water-bath, and when the solution is effected add the gum mastic, and then finally the spirits of turpentine near the end of the operation. Filter thru cotton cloth.

D. F. D., Oxford, O., asks: Can you explain how Spiritualists obtain messages on slates?

While there are many who believe in the possibility of communicating with spirits, the general belief is that slate-writing is a trick. A recent book by David P. Abbott, entitled "Behind the Scenes With the Mediums," explains very fully how slate-writing is accomplished.

R. W. O., Syracuse, N. Y., asks: What are the Sommer Islands?

This name is the one originally given to the Bermuda Islands, which are now properly called after Juan Bermudez, who discovered them in 1522. The group is about 624 miles east-south-east of Cape Hatteras.

S. R. T., Detroit, Mich., asks: What are the purest metals?

Ordinarily speaking, lead, tin and gold can be obtained commercially of a high degree of purity. Good commercial lead often contains as much as 99.95 per cent pure metal.

G. T., Washington, D. C., asks: How is first-class shoemaker's wax made?

The Scientific American Cyclopaedia of Recipes gives the following formula for shoemaker's wax: Melt together the best Swedish pitch and tallow in a vessel over the fire. The quantity of tallow must be determined by experiment. Roll into balls. The right kind of pitch is of a brown color when fractured.

P. M. C., Indianapolis, Ind., asks: Who is President of Columbia College in New York, and is it a good college?

The present President of Columbia University is Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, who, in 1901, succeeded the Hon. Seth Low. Columbia ranks next to Harvard in number of students, and its schools of law, science and medicine are not excelled by those of any other educational institution in the country. It has within a few years entered into arrangements with other universities, so that its students may follow certain specialties at the other universities in their work for their degree at Columbia.

For Veterans Over 70.

M. G. Saum, Hagerstown, Md., believes that it would be nothing more than right for the Government to give every soldier of 70 and over $1 a day.

Department of Vermont, G. A. R.

The Department of Vermont, G. A. R., held its 41st Annual Encampment at Montpelier, Feb. 26, with about 150 veterans present, and the stage decorated with the old Sixth Corps headquarters flag. A pleasing incident was the presentation to Commander A. C. Brown of a fine silver-mounted gavel, so that its student may follow certain specialties at the other universities in their work for their degree at Columbia.

The Department of Nebraska.

Rev. John T. Smith, Chaplain of the Department of Nebraska, G. A. R., Nebraska City, Neb., wants the attention called of all the Commanders of Posts in the Department who have not yet sent in their reports to do so at once. The welfare of the Grand Army of Nebraska in a measure depends upon the reports being made promptly, and it is hoped that all will see the necessity of this.

For Department Commander.

H. W. Slocum Post presents the name of Capt. H. Veatch, of Pawnee, Okla., for Commander of the Department of Oklahoma, G. A. R. Commander Veatch is enlisted in the 78th Ill., and rose to be Captain of his company. He was in all the battles of his regiment from Chickamauga to the Grand Review, and has been an active worker in the ranks of the Grand Army.

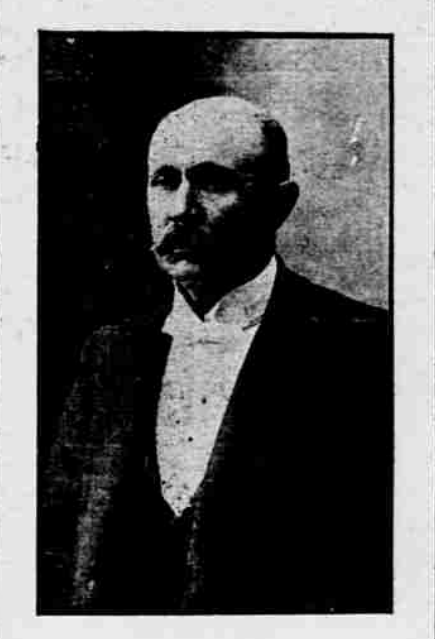

Reunion of the 10th Ohio.

COMRADE NELSON J. BOZARTH.

Candidate for the Republican Nomination for Congress.

Nelson J. Bozarth, of Valparaiso, Ind., was born, raised and educated in Indiana, and never lived outside the State. At the age of 14 he enlisted in Co. C, 138th Ind., and at the end of his term re-enlisted in Co. C, 9th Ill. Cav., in which he served until Nov. 15, 1865. After the war he worked on farms and at grubbing and other hard work until with his money earned in the army he had enough to take him to college. After a four years' college course at the Valparaiso College he entered the Indiana State Law School at Bloomington, Ind., where he graduated in the Spring of 1872. He opened an office at Valparaiso soon after graduating, and has been in the active practice of the law ever since. He has held the positions of City Attorney of Valparaiso and State Attorney, 16th District of Indiana. He is now a candidate for nomination to Congress against Hon. E. D. Crumpacker in the 19th District of Indiana. Comrade Bozarth is an active G. A. R. man, and has been twice Commander of his Post.

Reunion 114th Pa. (Collis's Zouaves).

The 37th Reunion of the 114th Pa. was held Dec. 14 in Post Room 19, Philadelphia, Pa., when the following officers were elected: President, Wm. J. Cuskey; Treasurer, Abram C. Brown; Secretary, Benj. F. L. Myers. The Treasurer, Secretary, Chaplain and Adjutant, each of whom has served 35 consecutive years, were presented with a handsome gold medal. At the banquet some 40 or more survivors of the regiment with many of their sons sat down and did full justice to the repast. There are about 198 survivors yet living, but many of them are too far away to attend the Reunions.

Soldiers and Sailors' Memorial.

There will be unveiled on Memorial Day on the Nyack Library lawn a massive boulder, on which will be mounted the inscription of Abraham Lincoln's immortal Gettysburg address. It will also have an inscription reading, "Soldiers and Sailors' Memorial, a gift from the children of Nyack, May 30, 1908," and the reproduction of the Grand Army badge in bronze, artistically enlarged. The monument is the product of the generosity of the children of Nyack, who were led in this work by Comrade Chas. M. Montgomery, the Patriotic Instructor of Waldron Post; Mary Strack, Patriotic Instructor of Waldron Corps, and J. Elmer Christie, Patriotic Instructor of Sandborn Camp. Comrade Montgomery has long been engaged in this work, and while living in Toledo he raised funds to erect a handsome granite memorial to the Army of the Potomac, Toledo, O.

This Washer Sells Itself—Send No Money

YOU wouldn't think of doing without a washer. No up-to-date woman thinks of doing without the old-fashioned, back-breaking, "board way." The only question is—what is the best washer? Which washer will do your washing quick and smart and most economical? Which washer will wash your clothes clean and with least wear and tear on them? Which washer will save most time for you? Which washer saves most money for you? To settle these questions we let a 1930 Gravity Washer sell itself to you. We are so positive our washers are "the best" that we are willing to send a 1930 Gravity Washer to any responsible party for 30 days' FREE use.

We ship you the washer and prepay the freight. Use it a month. Do four weeks' washings. Wash your finest linens and your heaviest blankets and quilts. Wash rugs. And, at the end of the month, the 1930 Gravity Washer has not sold itself to you—if you are not perfectly satisfied that it is far and away the best and most thorough and most economical washer—don't keep it. Tell us you don't want the washer and we will not expect you to keep it. If when the month is up, you are pleased with the washer—if you are convinced that it will save time—save strength—save health—save mending—save clothes—save money—more than enough to pay for itself in a short time, then send us each week or each month part of what the washer saves for you. This way a 1930 Gravity Washer pays for itself. In just a few months it is all paid for. Then it is yours for all time and all it saves is yours to keep.

We take no risk in making you this offer because we know our washers are the best and will save for you just as we say. And you take no risk in accepting our offer because you do not send a penny of money until after you have used the washer a full month—and not even then, unless you decide to keep it. This way a 1930 Gravity Washer pays for itself.

Our Illustrated Washer Book—tells how these washers are made and shows how they work. Write for the book today. Write to: Washers, 1200 Washer Road, for Yours, St. Elizabeth, N. Y. (If you live in Canada, write to the Canadian 1930 Washer Co., 355 Yonge St., Toronto, Ont.)

natl. There were about 18 of the old boys present, and from the stories told of foraging expeditions one might almost think that thieving was a profession during the war and brought a premium. Both Capt. and Mrs. Weber entertained the comrades most generously, and the Reunion closed with old-time songs by the entire company.

lay in the receipt of the checks. Rev. B. Preston, Clarkstown, Wash., thinks that this inconvenience will only apply to the first check, and if the merging is in the trend of true economy the comrades ought to be reconciled to it.

RECENT LITERATURE.

In the April number of Smith's Magazine, Florence Augustine has a clever, practical article of special interest to every woman. In it she discusses the question, "What Makes a Woman Charming?" and teaches the value of cheerfulness as a beautifier.

"Buoyancy of spirit," she says, "is the most valuable social asset a girl can have. Have you ever studied, actually studied, the manner of the girl who is popular—the girl who isn't especially pretty? I mean, but who wins by something entirely apart from clothes or money or looks? She is almost invariably cheerful. She meets people with a gay little smile, and enters into their interests with a happy abandon that is as unselfish as it is sincere. She laughs, she flutters, she enjoys—and she means it all.

"Charm cannot exist where these qualities exist to excess; conceit, selfishness or self-consciousness."

In The People's Magazine for April there is a greater variety of good fiction than can be found elsewhere in the market. The magazine consists of 152 pages of complete stories, and an additional 22-page supplement of stage pictures, with which is connected a departmental review of plays. It contains a long complete novel of romance by Clinton L. Dennerfield; a novelette dealing with the occult, by Winona Godfrey; an amusing department-story, by Leo Crane; a tale with real Western flavor, by R. C. Fisher; a clever detective story, by Emily Wright Maynard; a humorous actor story, by Ashley Miller, and many others. No matter what your mood you can find something to fit it—or cure it—in this issue of The People's. Read "The Sweetest of Belle Hazard"; it is more than worth the price of the entire magazine, which is only 15 cents.

Andersonville Prison

GREAT PREMIUM OFFER

The National Tribune and O'Dea's Famous Andersonville Picture for $1.40

FAC SIMILE OF THE ORIGINAL DRAWING.

The picture of Andersonville by Comrade Thomas O'Dea, drawn from memory, is the best pictorial representation of that terrible torture pen. It shows with fidelity not only the lines of the stockade and the scenes in the interior of the prison, but its representations of the dead house, the burial of the thick coming dead, and other scenes and incidents which are indelibly impressed upon the memory of all those who were there. The picture is artistically executed and printed upon heavy paper suitable for framing. It has a historical value not approached by any other attempt to represent Andersonville in a picture. Comrade O'Dea was for a long time imprisoned in Andersonville, and had the artistic ability to put upon paper the sights that he saw there.

PICTURE IS FIVE FEET LONG BY THREE AND ONE-HALF FEET HIGH.

Story of the Battle of Gettysburg

Every American should own this splendid book. It contains a large outline chart of the 25 square miles of battlefield, showing the location of every regiment and the movements of the two armies. Every detail of the battle is described by a military man of distinction, and it has about 50 letters and reports written in the saddle on the battlefield by the Union and Confederate officers, picturing the scenes in all their vividness. It contains the portraits of the leading Generals of both armies with facsimile autograph letters of many Generals. It is illustrated with 25 principal battles of the Civil War. It has a fine portrait of President Lincoln and a handsome copy of his famous address at Gettysburg. The book is worth one dollar, but while they last you can have one mailed to you for twenty-five cents in stamps.
